

James L. Hanson

James L. Hanson (Jim) has over 30 years of senior management experience in the healthcare, insurance and financial services sectors. His career has spanned organizations from Fortune 500 companies to information security start-ups. In his current role at Avera Health he has overall responsibility for information security as well as being the regional information officer for a subset of Avera's facilities.

Jim has participated in and served on several industry, technology and community groups over the years. He and his wife Deb reside in Sioux Falls, SD and have two grown daughters.