

Deborah O'Dell is vice president for business intelligence at Englewood, Colorado-based Catholic Health Initiatives, the nation's second-largest nonprofit health system, which operates 105 hospitals and hundreds of other care sites in 19 states.

In her role at CHI, O'Dell oversees the Business Intelligence group and directs and manages such key areas as product development, data architecture, data governance and analytics portfolio. Prior to joining CHI nine years ago, O'Dell was associate director of operations at Regis University in Denver, Colorado. She received her bachelor's degree in English education from Illinois State University, Normal, Illinois.