

Lynn Skoczelas

Lynn Skoczelas is the chief experience officer for Sharp HealthCare, a fully integrated health care system in San Diego. As chief experience officer Skoczelas is responsible for defining the organization-wide strategic imperatives for transforming the health care experience for team members, affiliated physicians and customers to drive organizational goal and vision achievement. She also provides leadership for the Sharp University, a “corporate university” created to provide leadership development, physician leadership development and team member engagement and has she oversees Consumer Research ensuring a fully integrated brand promise and brand experience.

Skoczelas has been a member of the Sharp HealthCare team since 1997 and has held several leadership positions within the organization both clinical and non-clinical. Skoczelas holds a Bachelor of Science in Nursing and a Master of Business Administration in Health Care Administration.