

Anthony White is surviving late stage IV metastatic head and neck cancer. This experience however, did not claim his life, but instead defined his life's purpose. Anthony navigated an intensive course with over 370 hours of in-patient chemo therapy, 44 radiation treatments and three surgical procedures on his journey towards wellness.

Anthony currently serves as the founding and Senior Patient/Family Advisor at Torrance Memorial Medical Center and Community Liaison for the Cancer Support Community of Redondo Beach. He also proudly partners with noted organizations as an inspirational and informational guest speaker championing patient and family-centered care. He is an active member of the Institute for Healthcare Improvement, the VHA Inc, and PFCC Partners. With his aim fixed on best practices, Anthony works towards giving patients and families a designated, engaged, full time set of eyes, strong shoulders, a heart, and a voice.

Prior to his 2009 diagnosis, he spent 16+ years as a successful business professional in the risk management/claims handling industry, mostly in high exposure litigation. His chief responsibility was to develop and motivate a sustainable, high-performing staff. Problems are opportunities to Anthony who is known as "The Fixer".

At his core, he's a family man, lives at the beach, and loves to cook. He's an ex-hockey player and a frustrated golfer. He was born and educated in New York, and is overly consumed with fantasy football.
